to be paid Mr. Godard?

"I do not know about the Godard matter."

"Was the meeting of July 21 a regular or special meeting?"

"Probably it was a special."

"Who called special meetings?"

"Mr. Dayhoff, usually."

"By written notice?"

"Sometimes written, sometimes verbal."

"Was there any notice given of the meeting of July 21 or 22?"

"We were all present, so I would suppose that notice had been given."

"Was it not the purpose of the legislature in fixing the 15 per cent limit to make secure the bonds?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then do you not think that the valuation to be used as a basis should be that which is used in raising county revenue?"

"I think the county could use either valuation."

"His Agreement With Hungeate."

"Did you have any conference with Mr. Hungeate about prosecution of state officers?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you ask him not to bring action against state officers?"

"No, sir."

"Why did you make this request on Mr. Hungeate?"

"I didn't want him to get ahead of me."

"Why not?"

"Well, because I didn't."

"That's a good answer. Now why have you allowed so much time to elapse before bringing any action?"

"I have been very busy."

"With the 'M. & N. suit'?"

"No, I was thinking especially of the Kansas City suits."

"You thought it more important to enforce the prohibitory law just then than to cover into the hands of a great many thousands of dollars, did you?"

"No, that wasn't the point."

"What was there was an outstanding liability of eight thousand dollars against Comanche county which you did not figure on, you exceeded the 15 per cent limit, and bought the Comanche county bonds contrary to law?"

"I do not think so. If we were ignorant of the outstanding indebtedness."

"I have been a lawyer that your failure to know about this outstanding indebtedness constituted an excuse for your violation of law?"

"If this was the case, I am ascertaining the conditions."

"Brings in Waggoner Case."

"Mr. Williams then asked Mr. Coleman whether one of the suits which had been brought was not against B. P. Waggoner to recover money to the state."

"Yes, sir," said Mr. Coleman.

"Has that suit been discontinued, hearing his name mentioned as he was making notes on his tablet. On discovering the nature of the question he said:

"All right, I'm glad you went into that."

"When the time came to cross examine the defendant, Mr. Waggoner, 'went after' him more vigorously than previously."

"The action referred to by Mr. Williams was brought by the general Coleman for the purpose of getting possession in behalf of the state a sum of $1,800 which constituted the money due to the state."

"The money was paid back into the treasury, and I could not see how a civil action would lie. The same is true about the Finney county matter."

"There seemed to be a criminal element in the Finney county suit, but I could not get the necessary evidence."

"Was any act done by you in connection with the Comanche county bond deal to look the treasury?"

"None whatever."

"Was there any conspiracy?"

"Nothing of the kind whatever. The matter was never talked over between us."

"Was there any over-observation of secrecy on your part?"

"There was not."

"There was any pressure brought to bear on Auditor Wells to compel him to register the bonds?"

"There was not."

"Did you have any meeting in Auditor Wells' office on the evening of August 11?"

"There was not. I was never present at any meeting where the registration of the Comanche county bonds was discussed."

"Did any of you have anything to do with Mr. Godard's relation to the transaction?"

"I know I didn't, and I don't believe the others did."

"Did Mr. Godard make any promise of any reward to you?"

"No, not much of any."

"Did you receive any profit of any kind on the transaction?"

"Not a single penny."

"You made a new rule in regard to valuation for the purpose of enabling the school fund to purchase these bonds?"

"I did not. That question had never been raised or considered."

"You were repeatedly urged by Governor Bailey to bring suit?"

"Yes, but we disagreed on methods."

"He wanted you to sue Kelly and you wouldn't?"

"He wanted something done before the expiration of his term of office."

"The plaintiff then introduced in evidence the deposition of H. D. Thompson of Des Moines, Ia., taken a number of months ago. Thompson was the owner of the Comanche county bonds. He offered the bonds to Kelly & Kelly at between 95 and 97 cents, and later sold them to a statement of Court adjourned at noon before this deposition was completed."

"The reading of the H. D. Thompson deposition in the Coleman trial case was not completed until 2:30."

"Then the plaintiff introduced a letter written by General Coleman in reply to the letters of ex-Governor Bailey to bring suit?"

"Yes, that was a statement of Mr. Coleman's reasons for refusing to prosecute State Treasurer T. T. Kelly, J. R. Burrow, secretary of state, and the other witnesses named by Mr. Coleman. Mr. Williams said:

"Was there any conspiracy between the state officers relative to the Comanche county bonds?"

"None whatever."

"Was there any effort to maintain secrecy?"

"There was not."

"Was there any meeting in Mr. Wells' office to talk this thing over?"

"No, sir."

"Was any pressure brought to bear on Mr. Wells to induce him to register these Comanche county bonds?"

"No, sir."

"When you examined the financial ability of the county to take care of these bonds did you consider that $8,000
